

CCAC training module on: infectious diseases

Reference and Resource Handout

Note:

This is a list of all the relevant references and resources cited within this module. Animal users should consult relevant experts and scientific literature for the most recent information on the species and techniques under consideration.

CCAC training module on: laboratory animals used in biomedical research (2010). Visit the CCAC website at www.ccac.ca to access and consult this training module.

Hau J. and Van Hoosier G.L. (2003) Handbook of Laboratory Animal Science. vol. 1, 2nd ed. Boca Raton, FL: CRC Press LLC.

Koszdin K.L. and DiGiacomo R.F. (2002) Outbreak: detection and investigation. Contemporary Topics in Laboratory Animal Science 41(3):18-27.

Lipman N.S. and Homberger F.R. (2003) Rodent quality assurance testing: use of sentinel animal systems. Laboratory Animal Science 32(5):36-43.

Otto G. and Tolwani R.J. (2002) Use of microisolator caging in a risk-based mouse import and quarantine program: a retrospective study. Contemporary Topics in Laboratory Animal Science 41(1):20-7.

Rehg J. and Toth L.A. (1998) Rodent quarantine programs: purpose, principles, and practice. Laboratory Animal Science 48(5):438-47.

Shek W.R. (2008) Role of housing modalities on management and surveillance strategies for adventitious agents of rodents. Institute for Laboratory Animal Research Journal 49(3):316-25.

Smith A.L. (2010) Management of rodent viral disease outbreaks: one institutions (r)evolution. Institute for Laboratory Animal Research Journal 31:51(2):127-37.